

DISCLAIMER IP

The trademarks, trade names, logotypes, domain names and any other distinctive mark (hereinafter, comprehensively, the "Distinguishing Marks") disclosed and/or published on the web site <http://www.winningrecipereport.com> (hereinafter, the "Site") is exclusive property of IGT PLC and/or of its partners, and/or licensing parties and are protected on a national, EU and international level.

They cannot be used or employed - for any purpose, neither entirely nor partially in their verbal or figurative elements -- without the prior specific written consent of IGT PLC and/or third rights holders.

The name, the other Distinguishing Marks and their variants and any distinguishing mark including cannot be included in any Internet address and/or domain name for any other websites, or as parts of said IP addresses and domain names, without the prior written consent of IGT PLC.

The names of commercial products and or services and/or items provided by IGT PLC to which reference is made to in the Site, independently from the manner in which they are reported, are protected hallmarks property of IGT PLC. The names of other companies and/or of their products or services may be trademarks ownership of their respective holders. The use of said trademarks and/or commercial names or sign without the mandatory authorization by the related right holder is strictly prohibited and may constitute a law infringement. In case of breach, the liable persons shall be prosecuted according to the applicable IP law. All rights are expressly reserved.

It is forbidden to adopt as a firm, name or company name, motto and domain name a distinguishing mark identical or similar to the Distinguishing Marks and/or identical or similar to the other marks as displayed on the Site if, because of the identity or affinity between the business activities of the holders of those signs and the products or services for which the mark has been adopted a risk of confusion for the public may arise, which may also consist in a likelihood of association between the marks.

The prohibition also includes to the adoption as firm, name or company name, motto and domain name of a distinguishing mark identical or similar to the Distinguishing Marks for products or services even not similar if the use of the Distinguishing Marks without grounded reasons let the employer to wrongfully take commercial advantage from the distinguishing character or from the commercial reputation of the Distinguishing Marks or anyhow is in prejudice of the Distinguishing Marks.

Those who are interested in the use of the Distinguishing Marks for the sole and exclusive purpose of indicating the destination of products or services, must submit specific and detailed written request to the email address: info@IGT.com taking care to point out :

- a) the date of commencement of the use of the Distinguishing Marks;
- b) the type of activity for which it is required the use of Distinguishing Marks;
- c) the temporal and territorial extension of the use of the Distinguishing Marks;
- d) a detailed list of the materials on which the Distinguishing Marks should be affixed and specifications of the supports;
- e) the layout and / or drafts of materials and / or content in relation to which the Distinguishing Marks should be used.

All materials listed above must be received strictly, with a notice of not less than 60 days (sixty) from the date specified in the letter a) above.

IGT PLC reserves with the widest discretion and according to the laws applicable to grant or withhold permission for use of Distinguishing Marks and / or other signs to them directly or indirectly connected. In any case IGT PLC has the right not to agree - and indeed to challenge - the use of Distinguishing Marks in the absence of full and timely discharge of even only one of the above conditions.

Any unauthorized use of Distinguishing Marks and / or other distinctive signs to the same directly or indirectly linked shall be immediately prosecuted by IGT PLC in all relevant forums.

The contents of the Site may not, in whole or in part, be copied, reproduced, transferred, downloaded, published or distributed in any way without the prior written consent of IGT PLC, except for the possibility to store on your computer or print extracts from the Site solely for personal purposes.